

What is FlexPAC™?

The FPA Political Action Committee (FlexPAC™) serves as the federal political action committee representing the flexible packaging industry. FlexPAC™ is funded by voluntary personal contributions of FPA members and supports candidates for political office who understand the broad array of issues facing the packaging industry. FlexPAC™ is a bi-partisan PAC.

Why do I have to fill out an authorization form?

The Federal Election Commission (FEC) requires trade associations like FPA to receive an authorization from a member company before soliciting you or your executive and administrative employees for contributions to our PAC. Granting this authorization does not obligate you or anyone in your company to contribute.

Please note that federal law permits a company to only authorize the solicitation of employees by one trade association federal PAC per year. We are required to obtain a written authorization each and every calendar year in order to solicit contributions. Therefore, please consider signing for multiple years.

Who is eligible to complete an authorization form?

Any person who is authorized by their company to grant this authorization.

Yes, I authorize FlexPAC™ to solicit:

- ☐ Executives and administrative employees of this company.
☐ Only the following executives and administrative employees of this company.
